

About Tim

Tim Heale is a British Army veteran, author, broadcaster and military historian with over four decades of military service. During a 44-year career in the Regular Army, Army Reserve and Full-Time Reserve Service, he served in a variety of operational and leadership roles, including Psychological Operations, before concluding his service in 2018.

His experiences have taken him across the world, from operational deployments in Afghanistan and Kosovo to adventurous training expeditions by sea, mountain and air. Along the way, he developed a passion for leadership, communication and storytelling. Those qualities continue to shape his work today.

Tim is the author of The Parallel Six, a seven-book historical fiction series following a remarkable group of lifelong friends through decades of world events. He is also the author of Letters from Afghanistan, which draws on a lifetime of military service and first-hand experience.

Away from writing, Tim is an established radio presenter on Veterans Radio Net and QA Hospital Radio. His programmes combine great music with conversation, history and humour, reflecting the same storytelling style found throughout his writing and broadcasting.

As both a podcast host and guest, Tim enjoys thoughtful conversations on military history, leadership, resilience, broadcasting, current affairs, travel and adventure. His varied background includes rugby, offshore sailing, Telemark skiing, hang gliding and adventurous training, providing a wealth of stories and experiences to share.

Whether behind a microphone, writing a novel or standing on a forgotten battlefield, Tim believes history comes alive through the people who lived it. His mission is to preserve those stories, inspire meaningful conversations and ensure that the lessons of the past are never forgotten.

Speaking & Interview Topics

Tim Heale is available for interviews, podcasts, radio and speaking engagements on a wide range of subjects. Drawing on 44 years of military service, together with his experience as an author and broadcaster, he enjoys thoughtful conversations that inform, entertain and encourage audiences to see the world from a different perspective.

Military Leadership & Service

Lessons learned from a 44-year career in the British Army, covering leadership, decision-making, resilience and developing people in demanding environments.

Psychological Operations & Strategic Communications

An insight into communication, influence and information in modern military operations, drawing on experience gained in Northern Ireland, Macedonia, Kosovo, Iraq and Afghanistan.

Operational Service

First-hand perspectives from service in Northern Ireland, the Balkans, Iraq and Afghanistan, including leadership, Psychological Operations, military broadcasting, information activities and working alongside coalition and multinational partners.

Military History

Bringing forgotten stories to life, exploring historic battlefields and explaining how the past continues to shape the present.

The Parallel Six

The inspiration behind the seven-book historical fiction series, creating believable characters and blending historical fact with compelling fiction.

Letters from Afghanistan

The real stories, challenges and experiences that inspired the book, together with the importance of preserving history while those who lived it are still able to tell their stories.

Broadcasting – From Battlefield to Studio

From military broadcasting on operations to presenting programmes on Veterans Radio Net and QA Hospital Radio, exploring how communication can inform, entertain and bring people together.

Leadership, Resilience & Life Lessons

How military service, adventurous training and life's challenges have shaped a practical approach to leadership, resilience and maintaining perspective.

Adventure Training

Stories from offshore sailing, Telemark skiing, hang gliding, rugby and adventurous training, and the lessons these experiences teach about teamwork, confidence and leadership.

Current Affairs

Discussing today's events through the lens of history, military experience and common sense, encouraging informed discussion and respectful debate.
